What You Need to Know About Vapor Intrusion: The Methods, Media Deployment, Best Sampling Practices, and Data Quality Review

September 30, 2026, 10:00 AM to 12:00 PM

Zoom Webinar, 2.0 LSP Credits

INSTRUCTOR BIOGRAPHIES:

Mariah Peronto is Pace's national program manager for air testing, encompassing three air laboratories in the Northeast, Southeast, and West Coast. Ms. Peronto has 19 years of experience in the environmental science field including laboratory project management and consulting. She graduated from the University of Wisconsin Madison with a BS in biochemistry.

Andy Rezendes has over 30 years of experience in environmental analytical chemistry, and over 20 years specific to air analysis. While at Alpha/Pace, Mr. Rezendes has conducted research in sulfide and mercaptan analysis, a comparative study involving the measurement of naphthalene in ambient air, and background VOCs related to vapor intrusion investigations in both residential and commercial buildings. He has conducted vapor intrusion coursework sponsored by the Massachusetts LSPA and other organizations, as well as participated in the development of the ITRC Petroleum Vapor Intrusion Guidance document. He has a BS in Chemistry from UMASS Amherst and master's level coursework in Environmental Engineering from Northeastern University.

Greg Ringo is the CTO and Envizor™ Product Manager at U.S. Environmental Rental Corp in Waltham, Massachusetts. With over 20 years of experience working with environmental sensor technology, Mr. Ringo has been focused on leveraging Internet of Things (IoT) technology to produce and deliver accurate, real-time air quality data on projects throughout North America.

John Spadea is the National Sales Manager at U.S. Environmental Rental Corp. and has more than 30 years of experience in the environmental services and construction industries, including 25 years with U.S. Environmental. He specializes in strategic account management, sales leadership, environmental monitoring solutions, and business development. Mr. Spadea is passionate about helping clients solve complex challenges, developing high-performing teams, and building lasting industry relationships. In his free time, he enjoys spending time with family, friends, and his pup, Coulson.
